Hoover High School

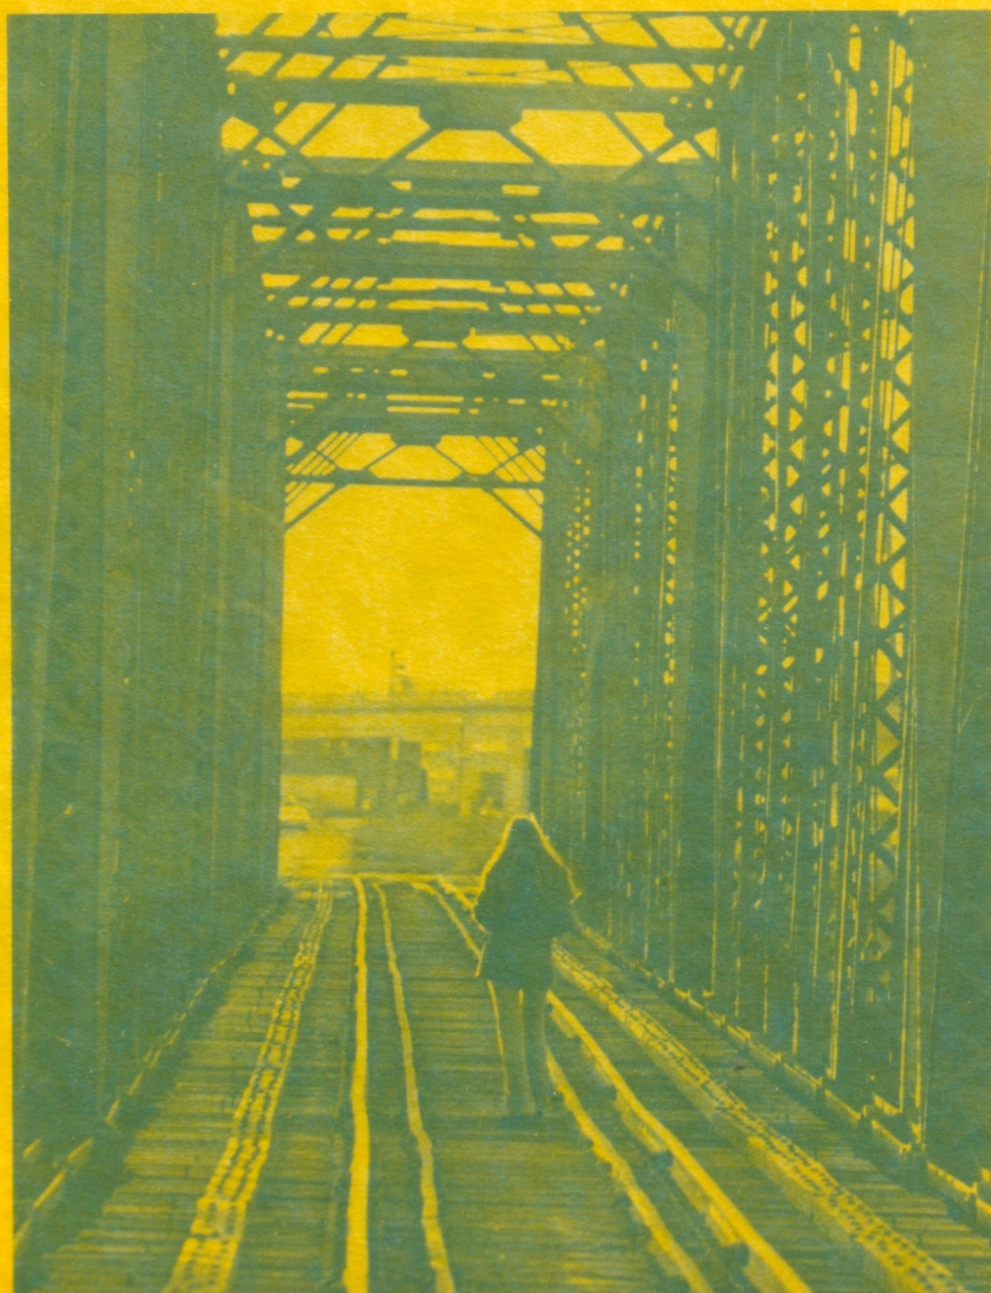

Des Moines, Iowa

Throughout the country, attitudes of youth and adults alike toward life have changed. Increased crime rates, poverty, military involvements and economic crisis hovered in the minds of all as they attempted to carry out their daily routines, although the majority of Americans still holed up apathetically in their niches hoping to forget life's increasing problems.

Though many people hid from the realities of life, more than ever before became aware of interest groups, looking for ways to save life's small pleasures. Everyone had more than their share of encounters to face.

Students are always hardest hit by the increased barrage of new social and moral values, new interest groups, climbing crime rates, and depressing future economic conditions. At Hoover, these feelings certainly prevailed.

The youth was being drawn into politics through the 18-year-old vote which became a reality in the election year of 1972. Along with voting privileges came controversial 19-year-old majority rights. Though these didn't directly affect the students, the idea of it all, the responsibilities involved, brought about more pressures and more thinking on the part of the students.

The outside, worldly affairs combined with the usual Hoover High School activities to pressure students into awareness. But their awareness turned toward outside interests, interests involved in the school but not the traditional activities.

Because this was an election year and because of the 18-year-old vote, 17-and 18-year-olds involved themselves in party caucuses, conventions and campaigning.

An all-city underground newspaper caught one student as a writer, others as promoters and hundreds more as readers.

Because of outside interests combining with some indifference toward school, the activities at Hoover—Homecoming, movie nights, holiday festivities, Keck Seminars, Student Council, Earth Week, and senior activities—were all organized by the same few individuals, supported by different groups, striving to keep these traditional activities from being abolished. This didn't seem to make much difference, though, because attendance was unprofitably low. The lack of money to begin to sponsor Homecoming, Christmas Dance, Pancake Day, open houses, and movie nights caused review of the worth of these events.

The behavior of a growing minority of Hoover students during school hours was detrimental to the issuance of more student freedom. Only five or six school assemblies were attempted during the year because some students couldn't sit still for one-half hour. Even when the assemblies were voluntary, students felt it necessary to attend and cause disturbances.

The Central College Symphony Orchestra presentation proved embarrassing to Hoover because of the rude inattentiveness of the "voluntary" audience. Poor manners were also displayed at a Simplicity Fashion Show by the audience and one of the models.

Assemblies were not the only events jarred by childish student behavior. Open Finals held at the end of January "opened" the school and nearby businesses for an invasion of a few immature youths. Because of this behavior, the open finals system had to be reviewed by the administration and faculty as to its future existence. It was decided to reform the system in hopes for better finals next year.

On and on goes the list of results of childish behavior and re-direction of student interest away from the traditional Hoover activities. But not all was bad at Hoover. Indeed, many students poured their time and efforts into helping their school and community. A Service Volunteers Club made many visits to needy families, cheering them along and taking them food. Girls' Club performed several service projects, among which was their annual Thanksgiving dinner for a few needy families. They revisited these and other families many times throughout the year. Humanities classes visited the Polk County Home for a Christmas party and caroled at the Home and Blank and Methodist Hospitals.

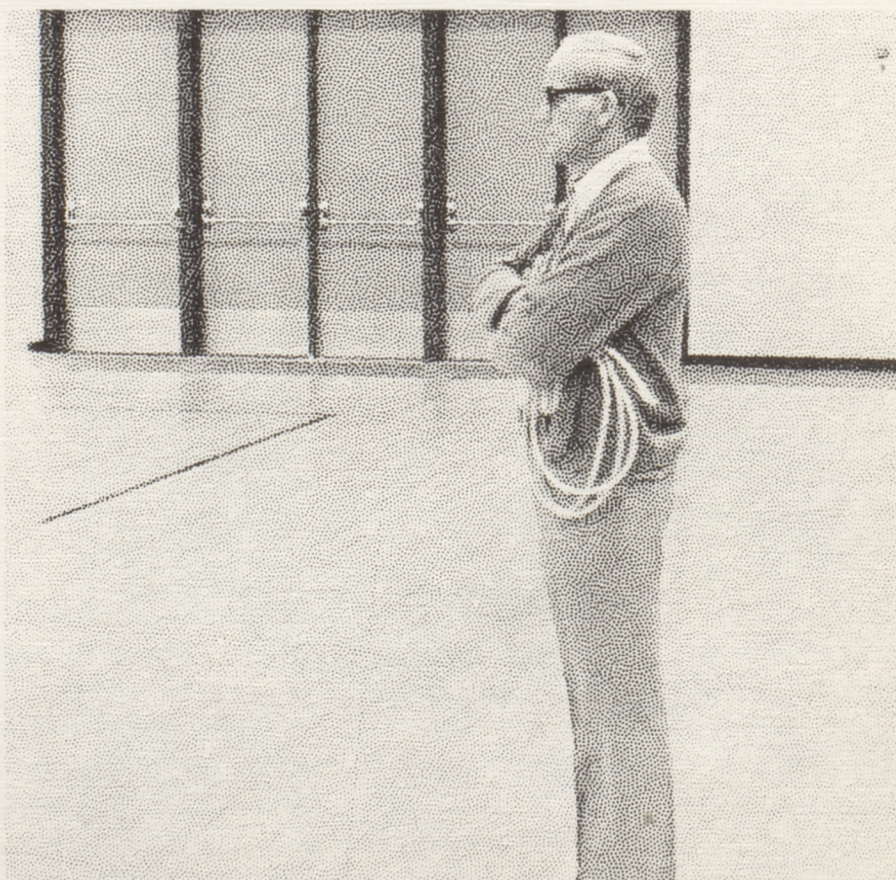

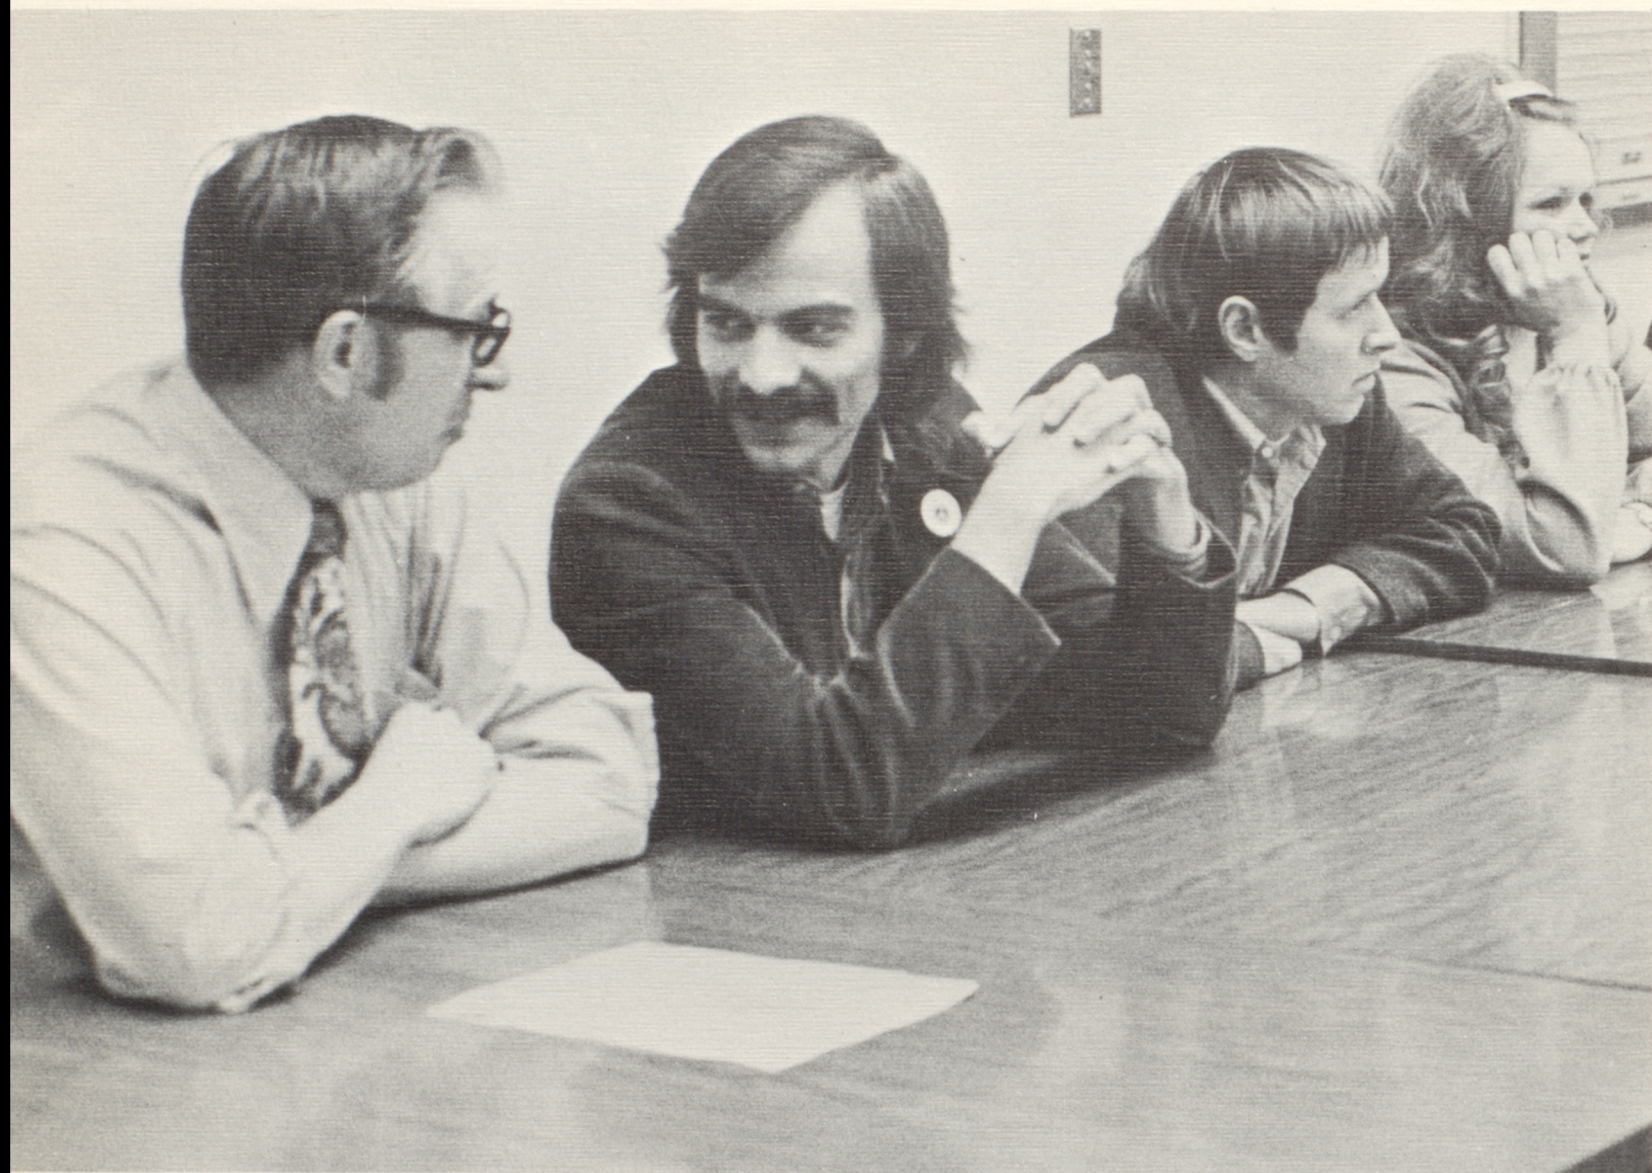

Athletics at Hoover showed strong support from parents and a few students and provided entertainment for countless students and parents. Drama productions brought in a sizeable profit along with creating new areas for students to explore.

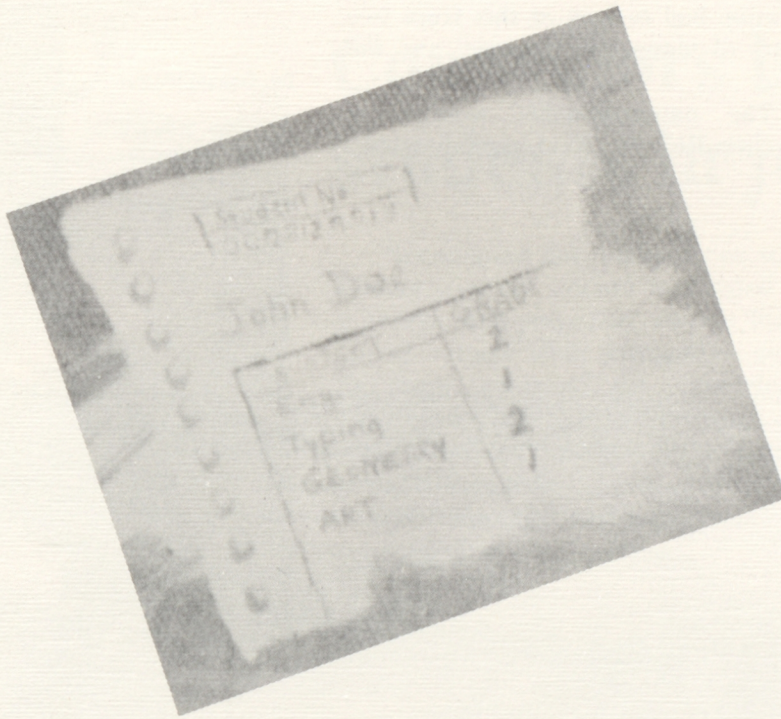

Hoover joined Lincoln High School in a profitable mixer held at Lincoln with no vandalism or rowdiness apparent. Student Council raised money at other entertaining affairs. The Keck Seminars provided unusual experiences for most students with its wide variety of classes held during the two-day session.

In a drive to clean up our environment, 300 students "pledged" to collect 30 cans or bottles each for recycling. 1491 pounds of excess garbage (cans and bottles) were collected. Senior Banquet drew the largest crowd in Hoover history, entertaining over 200 seniors with good food, music, and speakers. Senior prom drew about 150 couples, a big success for a prom. These positive activities brought about the hope that not all the year would be considered bad.

School life is viewed through the eyes of an aware adult, wondering what his future will bring him. Life is viewed through the adolescent's eyes wondering what pleasure he can find in the next 15 minutes. High school is a rough experience felt by an adolescent tasting his first adult privileges. Times are good, and plenty of times are bad. But, in 10 or 15 years, high school will be looked back on by the present Hoover students as an unforgettable experience they wouldn't change. For life is made up of experiences.

Though generally conservative in their views, the faculty and administration helped us, the students, exercise as much freedom as possible and still function as a school. Some students childishly wanted more than was possible. Others, realizing the added freedoms, made good use of open finals, open concession stand, open-type campus, curriculum choices, student government, advisory board, voluntary assemblies, all the little side trips, getting out of class for this or that, and lots of little things we never think of. There were disagreements and some hard feelings, especially when the bathrooms were closed because of damages, and Open Houses were threatened because of vandalism in the bathrooms. The administration disagreed with students about future Keck Seminars. The English Department disagreed with students, deciding to change their format because students weren't taking needed courses. These differences were usually cleared up. But most of the administration, faculty, and counselors did a fantastic job of helping students get through high school.

Administrators face typical problems in school year

Dr. Donald Wetter, principal; Mr. Wendell Miskimins, vice-principal; and Miss Vera Kendall, girls' advisor, opened Hoover together for the fifth consecutive year. They faced many of the old problems and some new ones.

Smoking, drinking and inter-school relations were a few of the everyday problems the administration handled. Because of a newly-enforced rule, the concession stands had to be closed during lunch. The administration had to look at this from two points of view: the students' and the law's.

The administration worked to maintain Hoover's NCA accreditation.

Counselors begin placing students in job openings

Acquainting the sophomores with Hoover, getting juniors interested in a career, and preparing seniors for a job or college after graduation were the main goals of the counselors. They served as a job consultant, career consultant, class organizer, advisor, and friend.

Mr. Robert Jankovitz began a special service to help those interested in finding jobs. He helped find both summer jobs and jobs to hold during the school year. Many times businesses contacted the school if they wanted to hire a high school student.

Counselors handled the problems of truancy and skipping.

Math supervisor teaches; Miss Ruth Davison retires

The mathematics department experienced changes in personnel. Because fewer students elected mathematics courses, Mr. Wilson Goodwin, mathematics supervisor for the Des Moines Public Schools, taught only one period. Miss Ruth Davison was forced to retire midway through the year because of illness serious enough to require extended hospitalization. Mr. Ray Bushyager replaced Miss Davison.

The mathematics curriculum remained essentially the same, except that selected sophomores were able to take Algebra II, usually taken during the junior year, and Statistics, a new course, was offered.

Team teaching emphasizes instructor's specialization

Team teaching and an expanding curriculum highlighted the science department. Team teaching was used because of the size of biology classes. Each teacher specialized in his area of human systems, other segments of life, and ecology, and students rotated among them.

Chemistry was expanded and taught on two levels. Advanced Chemistry students studied the regular curriculum, but in greater depth. Physics will similarly be expanded next year to include Advanced Physics. As a terminal science course after Biology, some students elected to take Physical Science instead of Chemistry and Physics.

Students get into community acts; voting, stocks, bonds

Getting students involved in more community affairs was one of the main goals of the social science department. Seniors were concerned with politics because of the new voting age. They took one semester of government and one of economics. Consumer business and family living were offered in place of economics if students desired to take them.

Government classes participated in a mock legislative assembly while economics classes worked on a stocks and bonds project.

Juniors filled their year by taking four quarter courses in American History; sophomores took four quarter courses of World History.

Highlighting the year in the study of English was the introduction of the Reading Lab to all students by sophomore English teacher Mrs. Eleanor Emanuel. Sophomore English consisted of one semester of speech and one semester of English, alternating throughout the year for more variety. Team teaching was extensively used in both areas of study.

Juniors and seniors chose two, one semester courses. Juniors were required to select one composition and one literature course; senior English was optional. Ninety-six seniors took Advanced Standing Placement English, a two semester course, taught on the freshman college level.

Foreign language classes learn native skills, customs

Teachers tried to make classes more interesting by playing up variety in the foreign language department. Students sang songs and read newspapers in foreign languages, the foreign students explained about their countries, and parties were held to familiarize students with native customs. The language laboratory was used to develop skills and pro-

Girls register for shop; boys enroll in homemaking

Even though half the male population of Hoover enrolled in Industrial Arts courses, they quickly learned that they no longer dominate the scene as more girls enrolled in shop than ever before. Industrial Arts classes have had girls enrolled before, but never have boys enrolled in Homemaking, until this year when some took Home Furnishings. (Could it have been for retaliation?)

New units were introduced in Industrial Arts. One, involving fiberglass, is hoped to be expanded into a new course. In the homemaking area, one co-ed course, Family Living, could be substituted for the required senior Economics course.

Creativity key for display of emotions with projects

Creativity was the key word in art and applied art classes. Students showed their emotions through the projects they created.

Concentrating mainly on drawing, painting, and sculpture, art projects and applied art projects demonstrated creativity and found a niche in the community. Be they rugs, pottery, silver, or stitchery, student projects were displayed in Hoover show cases as well as at the John Deere plant in Ankeny. Area high school work was also displayed at the Ankeny plant.

The Des Moines Art Center provided space for art projects to be viewed by the general public.

Music Theory was established to teach the theory, arranging, history, and exposure to all kinds of music. Mr. Ron Battani and Mr. Willard Marquardt both taught the course.

Many outstanding musicians were chosen for the All-State Band, Orchestra, and Chorus, and Hoover entered the maximum number of contestants in the State Music contest. Orchestra played for "Oliver!" and Mr. James Brauningner conducted for the entire show. Band marched at football games.

Business department offers new class for consumers

One new course, DECA, Future Secretaries, and field trips highlighted business education. Mr. Donald Gerdom taught Consumer Business, the new course, which could be substituted for the required Economics course on the senior level. Early Bird Typing, like Early Bird P.E. and Drivers' Education, was added to the curriculum because demand was great for typing classes.

Field trips added to the course of study in Business Law and stenographic classes. Business Law students visited the Polk County Court House while stenographic students toured AIB, Bankers Trust, American Republic, and Central National Bank.

Driver education, physical education both teach skills

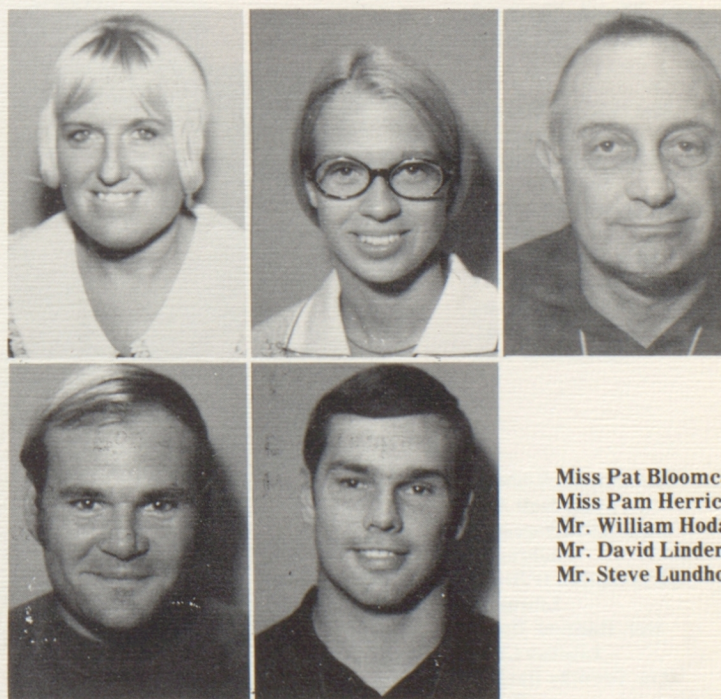

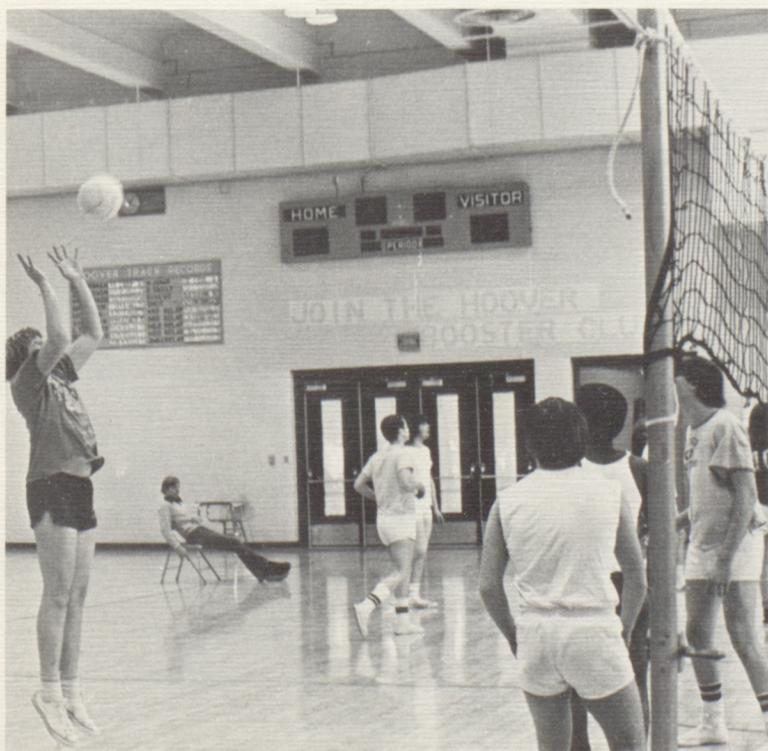

For the first time since Hoover opened, Driver Education was offered only one semester, causing enrollment for summer school Driver Education to swell. Curriculum was set up on a six day rotation system consisting of three days of class, one day of simulator, one day of driving, and one day of class. Licensing resulted from proficiency learned through skill.

Skill was also stressed in Physical Education. The "weaker" sex developed an interest in track resulting in Hoover's first girls' track team. Petitions also circulated to have girls' basketball next year. Boys concentrated on team competition in class while girls worked on skills.

Service projects increase; Linda Clark wins award

A continuation of traditions and an increased number of service projects combined to compose the year for Girls' Club. The Big-Little Sister Tea started the year, followed by bake sales to raise money for service projects and a money-raising Chili Supper. "Man for All Seasons," George Lang, was crowned at the Valentine Dance in February. Topping off the year was the installation of '72-'73 officers and the awarding of the coveted Peggy D. Russell award to Linda Clark.

Throughout the year service projects were undertaken to brighten the lives of many people. Special dinners and parties were hosted by the girls at Halloween, Thanksgiving, and Easter.

Little enthusiasm, depleted budget plague Boys' Club

A combination of little enthusiasm and apathy caused Boys' Club to dwindle steadily. Attendance at meetings never rose above ten, and many times the only boys who showed up were the four officers and Mr. James Drummond, sponsor.

Despite the apparent lack of interest and enthusiasm, a successful Homecoming parade was managed.

Boys' Club had to turn to Girls' Club and Key Club to help execute the Christmas Dance.

Although there was a complete lack of funds at the end of the year, members did raise money by selling ribbons and buttons displaying spirit slogans for athletic events. Because of the low enthusiasm, election of new officers was postponed to fall.

The KIOA High Hoopers played against an all-star faculty team through the behind-the-scenes work of Key Club. Sponsored by the Merle Hay Kiwanis, Key Clubbers used the money raised from the Hoopers' appearance to help fund the Christmas Dance. During the holiday season, the club rang bells at Merle Hay Plaza for the Salvation Army.

In the spring, a check was presented to the Iowa Commission for the Blind from seat-cushion sales; the annual Charity Party was held, and the annual Speaker's Day was held. State Representative Robert Kraemer spoke. One member, senior Mike Devine, received the Merle Hay Kiwanis Club Scholarship based on grades and Key Club participation.

Vocal department members in All-State, state contest

Concert Choir, under the direction of Mr. Willard Marquardt, boasted 62 members, the largest choir in Hoover's five years' existence. Alto Robbin Williams, soprano Sue Curtis, and tenor Doug Coy were chosen to participate at the All-State Music Festival in November. The multi-media Christmas concert and the large group contest highlighted the singing season along with the State Music Contest. Officers for the group were Robbin Williams, president; Ray Jones, vice-president; and Sheri Legore, secretary.

Another aspect of vocal music included Girls' Glee Club, open to any girl who liked to sing. Janis Clark was president; Nancy DeCarlo, vice-president; Debbie Herron, secretary.

Band earns 35 I ratings; 8 in All-State Orchestra

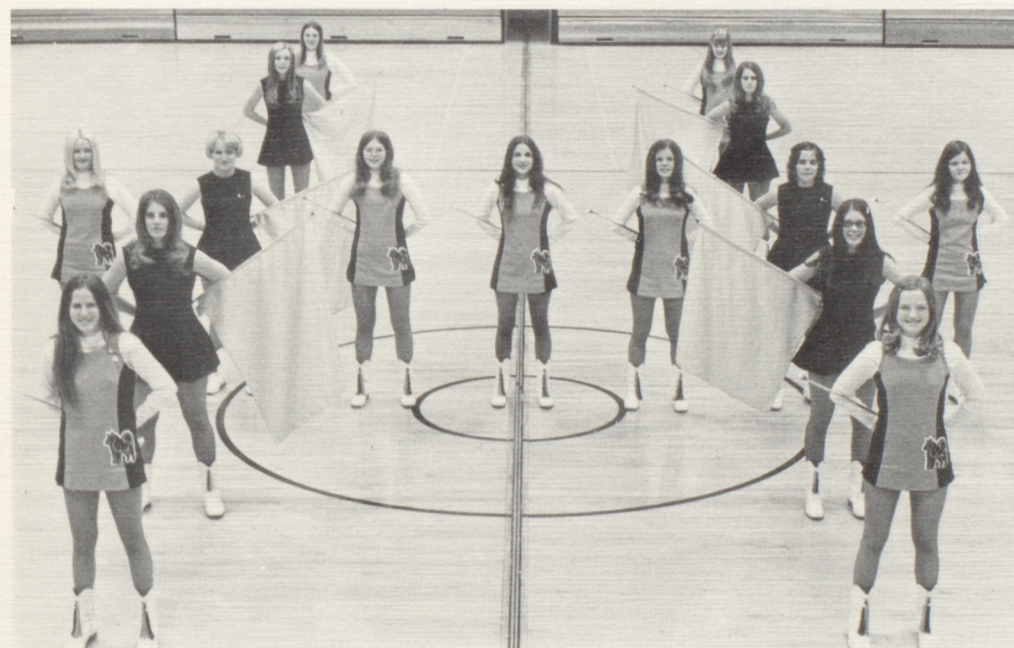

"I believe the Hoover band now has the reputation of being one of the finest bands in this area, for that matter the state," said director Ron Battani. The 105 piece band set a school record, receiving 35 I ratings at the State Solo and Small Group Contest. Mr. Battani felt the now established tradition of excellence would be carried out next year with 130 members divided between two band groups.

Under the baton of Mr. James Brauninger, Hoover's string players provided the music for "Oliver!" Three other school concerts highlighted the year while outside performances were given at retirement homes. Eight members were chosen for the All-State Orchestra in November.

Baton and Flag Twirlers establish Twirling Cadets

Baton and Flag Twirlers, under a new sponsor, Mr. Ron Danielson, combined to form a new attraction, Twirling Cadets. The girls and their new uniforms continued to perform with the band. To raise money for their out-of-town basketball per-formances, the girls sold candy. The 28 members marched at Hoover, Simpson, Grandview, the Drake Re-lays, Pella Tulip Festival and the Armed Forces Day parade.

NFL reputation sustained; Cornwell, Delap to finals

The 45 members of the National Forensic League, comprising the largest chapter in the state, competed in 33 debate and speech contests. Through their numerous winnings, the squad sustained their reputation as one of the best in the state. Two members, Ann Cornwell and Dave Delap, attended nationals at Wake Forrest University, Winston-Salem, North Carolina. Ann was named the state winner in Girls' Extemp and Dave was named Outstanding Senator for the state, which entitled them to compete with the nation's best forensic students.

A great deal of help was received from the novices and the parents of the organization. Honored for their assistance were Ann Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Delap.

Thespians, Footlighters aid successful drama department

Hoover's two drama productions, "Tartuffe" and "Oliver!", would not have been successful if two organizations did not exist: Footlighters and Thespians. The productions simply wouldn't have been put on because everyone participating in any way was either a member of Footlighters or Thespians. Thespians, an international honorary society for outstanding dramatists, included 33 members and was sponsored by Mr. Steve Pudenz. Members of Footlighters were working their way into Thespian membership by means of a point system. Four points were needed for membership in Footlighters, ten for Thespians.

DECA sends delegates to state meeting, conference

Hoover's DECA (Distributive Education Clubs of America) started out the year with 17 students and by the end of the year nine remained. Sponsored by Distributive Education and Salesmanship instructor, Mr. Paul Brust, the remaining members raised money by selling Heath Candy and also by operating the DECA bookstore to help a needy family at Christmas and also to pay expenses for field trips and club parties.

Because Hoover's chapter of DECA is affiliated with the state and national organization of Distributive Education Clubs, delegates attended the State DECA meeting and leadership conference.

Besides attending the American Institute of Business, the 19-member Future Secretaries of America focused their attention on children. The girls, sponsored by Mrs. Darla Stiles, included in their activities a Christmas party for orphanage children. Money for the project was raised by a car wash.

With 15 seniors graduating, the size of Future Teachers of America will shrink. Matmaids

An added attraction to the wrestling season was the new six-member club, Matmaids. The duties of the group, sponsored by Mr. Jerry Gay, were to keep score, announce wrestlers' names, hand out programs, and promote wrestling in general. Spirit was boosted before each meet by posters and tags that the girls made.

Track Clerks

After only two years existence, Track Clerks, sponsored by Coach Bob Wells and Coach Bert Adams, expanded to 58 members. The clerks handled the job of recording and tabulating the results of each event at track meets and also tabulated the results of the Special Olympics at Drake University. Organizer was Connie Scherer.

Timers time swim meets; leaders demonstrate skills

Timers' Club

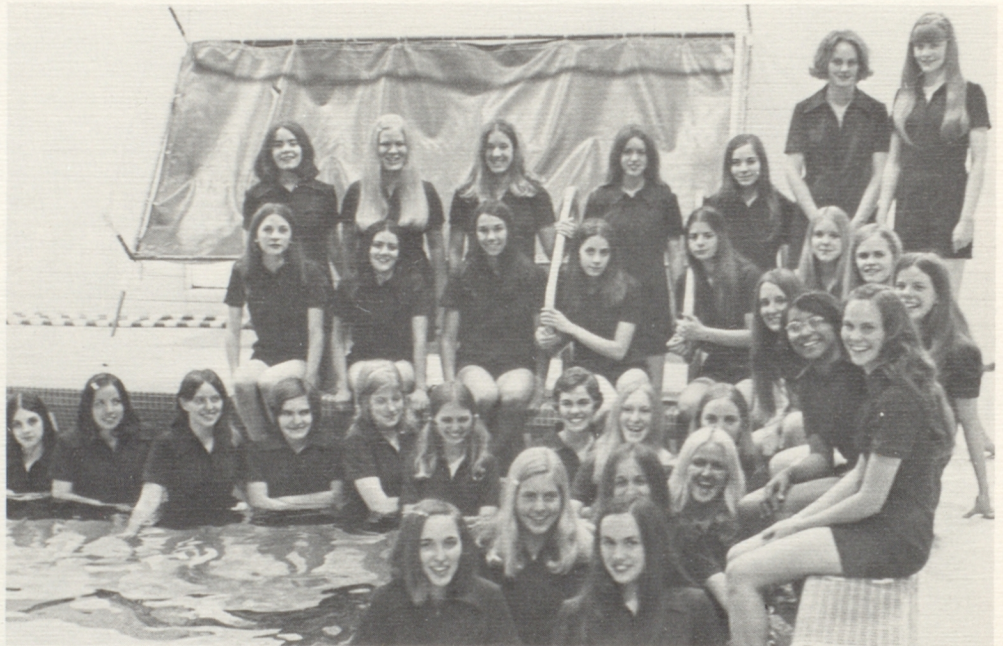

The boys' swimming program continued to benefit from the assistance of the girls in Timers' Club. Mr. David Linder, sponsor of the club, had the girls time at all home meets. Besides promoting boys' swimming, the 37 members of Timers' Club helped to raise money by joining with Marlins to get pledges for the Swim-a-thon.

Cheerleaders add school spirit, gusto

Cheerleaders continued in their efforts to promote school spirit and cheer at all athletic events. Bake sales were held on the "side-lines" to raise money so team locker rooms could be decorated and a cheerleading breakfast could be held to announce the new cheerleaders, who were chosen in part by the old cheerleaders.

Volunteers give services; Lettermen excel in sports

Service Volunteers and Red Cross

Red Cross was expanded into Service Volunteers under Mrs. Eleanor Emanuel. Entertaining children at Tiny Tot centers and Lutheran Hospital, and senior citizens at Ramsey Memorial Home kept the group busy. Summer activities for the 15 members include gatherings at Veterans Hospital and attending the Red Cross Camp.

Lettermen's Club

Like other organized activities, athletics is recognized by Lettermen's Club. Lettermen's Club was made up of athletes chosen by each event's coach. Boys were chosen because of their outstanding contributions in a team effort. As the name of the organization implies, the award for membership was the letter "H".

Latin Club, sponsored by Mr. Joseph Nemec, entertained other city clubs at the All-City Latin Banquet, March 16. In April, Peggy Nielson, Tina Myrin, and Sheryl Huntoon attended the State Junior Classical League Convention in Waterloo. Summer activities include the National Junior Classical League Convention in Virginia.

Spanish Club

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hollingsworth chaperoned 30 students to Mexico City and Acapulco in the summer, because many fund raising activities were held to raise money for the trip, 1971-72 marked the birth of Spanish Club. Money-making projects included bake sales, sticker sales, concession sales, and a car wash.

Hooverettes make uniforms for debut at Homecoming

"We love to march and will do so at any time," stated Hooverette sponsor Mr. Robert Jankovitz. This statement was made evident by the multitude of activities the 50 members were involved in. Besides making new uniforms for their debut at Homecoming, they marched at football games, basketball games, the Drake Relays Parade, at the Pella

Tulip Festival, and a Memorial Day service at Veterans Auditorium.

The girls made their singing debut at the Special Olympics held for retarded children. At the Drake Stadium they sang to the tune of "Hey, Look Me Over!" with special words to fit the event. The girls sold candy and made $1200 when they were not marching.

P.T.A. and Booster Club assist school departments

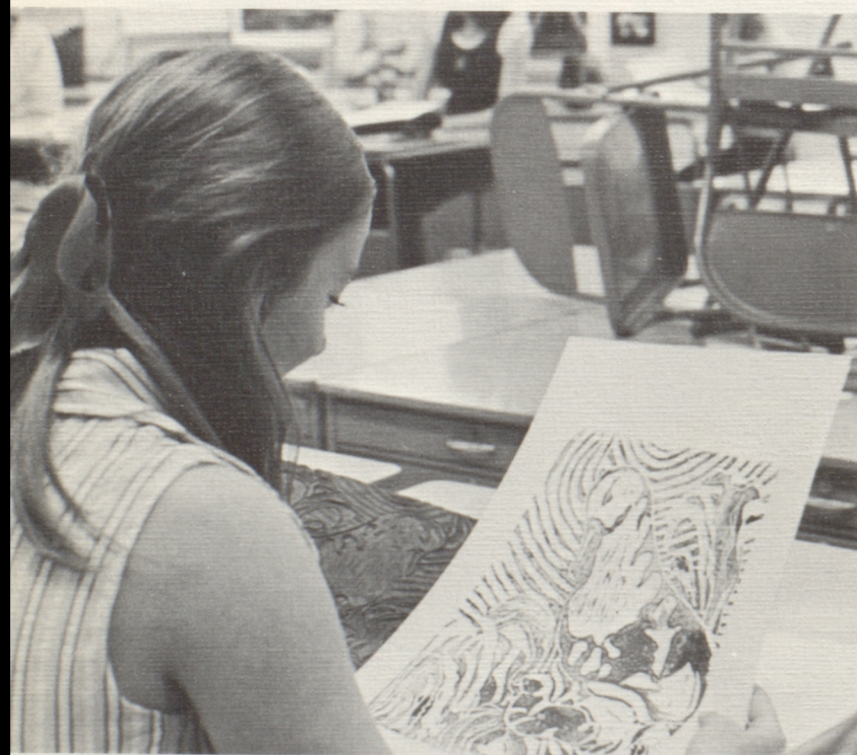

Many activities that Hoover students enjoyed this year were brought about through the efforts and support of Booster Club and P.T.A. All departments-Drama, Music, Forensics, and others-received some sort of assistance, such as Pancake Day and the Open Houses were aided by parents and teachers. One important, specific item sponsored by P.T.A. was a pot luck mixer held at the beginning of the year to introduce the new teachers.

14 journalists initiated into honorary Quill and Scroll

Fourteen members were initiated into Quill and Scroll, an international honorary society for outstanding high school journalists. Each year members are picked to join the ranks on the basis of class rank, recommendation by adviser Mrs. Ruth McHone, and superior work done in some phase of journalism.

Initiation involved making a pressman's hat, carrying around a container of candy, and being stamped with the "Hoover High School Dept. of Journalism" ink stamp. Quill and Scroll Members automatically belong to the Iowa Daily Press Association as junior members. The Press Association confers the honor of junior membership because of students attaining membership in Quill and Scroll.

Challenger Staff institutes changes for profit-making

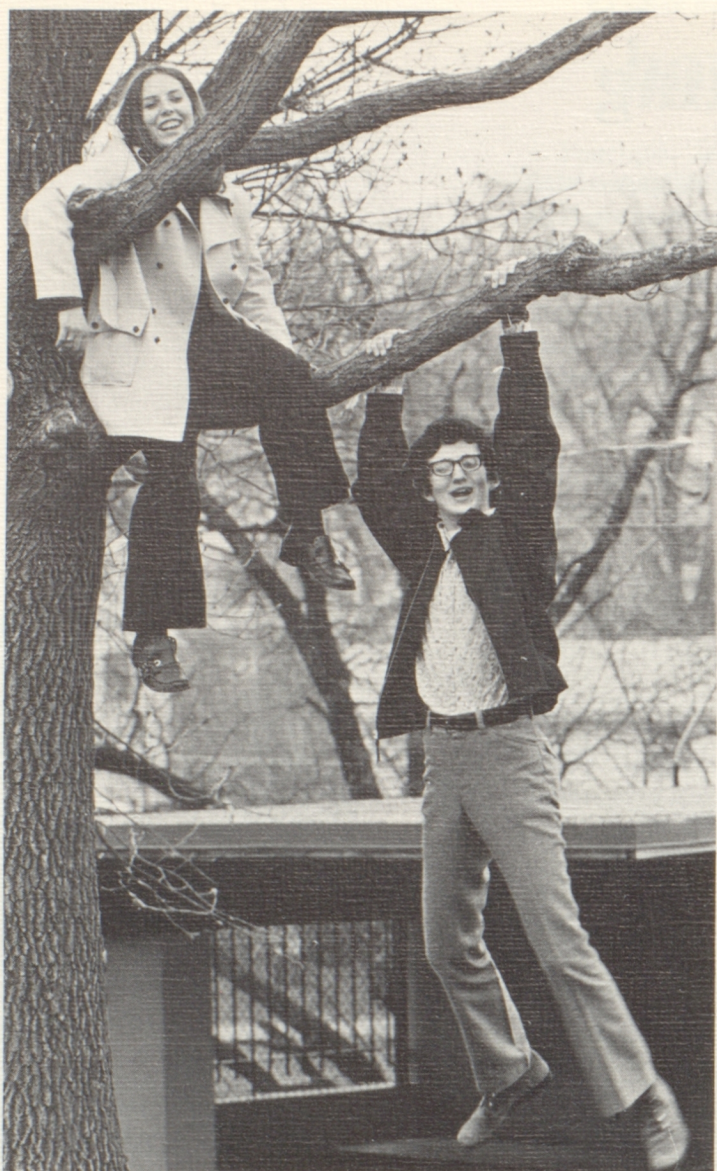

The Challenger Staff succeeded in grinding out 17 newspapers amid publishing problems, unworkable typewriters, chaotic organization, overdue deadlines, a never-to-be-solved mystery of missing pencils, and the inevitable, ever-pressing pressure. Notable achievements included making money for the first time due to the switch to offset printing and quality paper being used for the first time.

In October, the Challenger staff found time to attend the Iowa High School Press Association convention and workshop at Drake University. The staff attended classes on editorials, photography and objective news writing. An "On-the-Spot" Writing Contest was won by year-long news editor Mike Devine.

Controversy over cover, innovations dominate Husky

For the '72 Husky, the yearbook staff introduced several innovations. The size of the book was enlarged to 9" by 12". Color was used in the introduction and a special color section was included. For the cover and endsheets, the same montage design was used. One innovation that met immediate resistance was the colors chosen for the cover. Many students wanted a green and gold cover.

Besides the color hassle, the inexperience of 15 of the 18 members enhanced the problem of producing the book. The important element of time was the one aspect many of the members didn't quite know how to handle. Through several conferences and many mistakes, the mad rush at the end resulted in a complete yearbook.

Colour My World prevails at Homecoming festivities

Homecoming activities got off to a slow start with the usual atmosphere of Spirit Week missing until Friday morning when 300 students came alive at the annual Spirit Breakfast.

Student Council President Bob Rucker took advantage of his chance to express his strong feelings of apathy about Homecoming festivities at the assembly. An interesting bet between Coach Hodam and his football team was announced in his opening speech. For a victory, the boys could grow their hair as long as they wished. But, if they lost, Coach Hodam had his shaver warmed up and ready to go.

Lighting, costumes highlight 'Tartuffe' production in fall

As its first production of the season, the Hoover Drama Department presented Moliere's "Tartuffe" November 11, 12, and 13. The play revolved around Tartuffe, a religious hypocrite and scoundrel, who fools Orgon into turning over to him his estate and his daughter's hand in marriage. In the end, the intercession of true friends and the wisdom of a wise ruler resolve the problem.

A new lighting system, made completely from scratch, was created by the fifth period production class. This, along with the colorful costumes made by Diana Bloethe and the costume crew, added a new dimension to the performance. Mr. Steve Pudenz was director, assisted by Mari Plummer.

Swing Choir, Jazz Band compete in state contests

The Hoover Jazz Band, directed by Mr. Ron Battani, along with the Swing Choir, under the direction of Mr. Willard Marquardt, consisted of a group of fun-loving musicians who enjoyed performing. Swing Choir sang popular songs such as "Close to You," "Games People Play," and "He Ain't Heavy." For the first time, both groups made names for themselves outside the Hoover area by competing in contests across the state. Jazz Band placed first in the South Central Iowa Band Masters' Jazz festival and Swing Choir took fourth place and received an Honorable Mention award at the Adel Swing Choir Contest.

Lang captures title at Valentine dance

"Through the Looking Glass" was the theme of the Valentine Dance, headed by Girls' Club, at which George Lang was elected "Man For All Seasons," the main event of the evening.

A tie contest in which almost all the couples competed turned out to be another Hoover first. Girls made ties for their dates and were judged at the door by Dr. and Mrs. Wetter and Miss Kendall. Charity Carr and Bill Thatcher were the winners.

Many decorations were still up by 11:00, unusual for a dance, and a group of senior girls had a special song dedicated to Dr. Wetter and proceeded to take turns dancing with him.

Spring weather dominates February Keck seminars

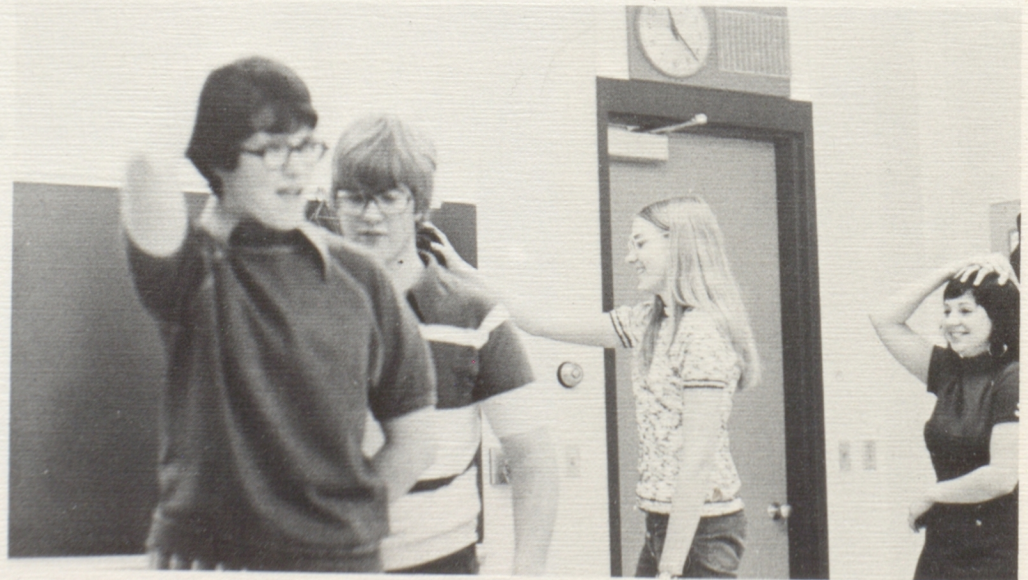

The Robert Keck Seminars, held February 28 and 29, created a break from the long dry spell between Christmas and Easter vacations. Regular classes were interrupted and replaced by unusual seminars of interest to students. Witchcraft was the most popular seminar. Other popular choices among students were Rock Music Appreciation, Astrology, Transcendental Meditation, Motorcycle Riding, and Hypnotism.

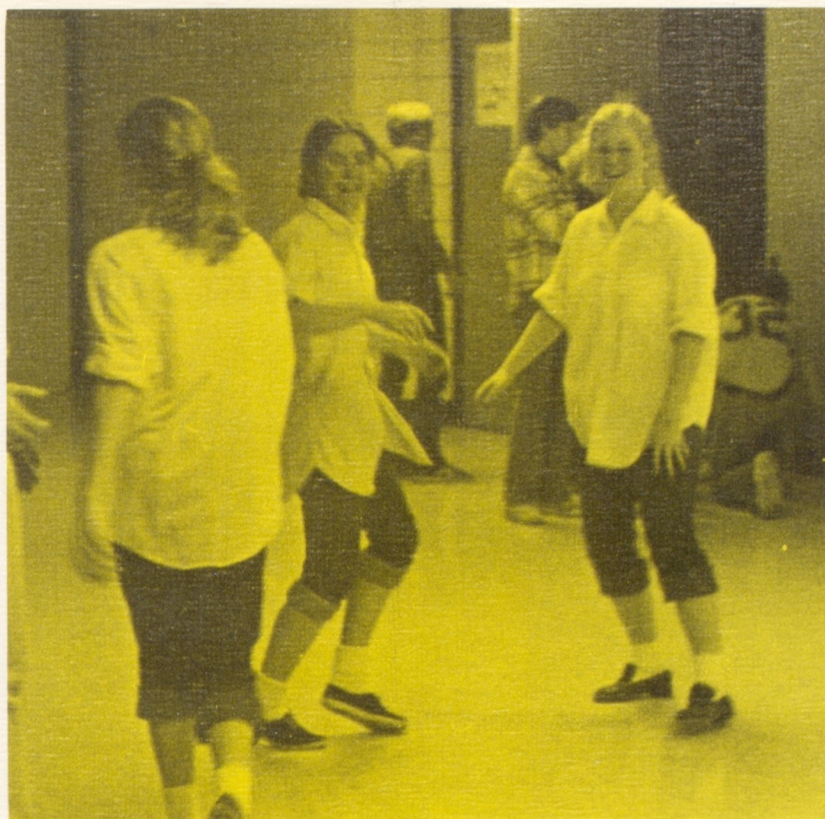

The Seminars would have been a success, except for poor attendance on the second day and failure of several of the speakers to arrive. The exceptionally good spring weather was accountable for the lower-than-expected attendance the second day; 387 out of 1270 students were present sixth period.

Spring council sponsors 'bopper' hop, cheap thrills

Spring semester Student Council displayed their enthusiasm to get something worthwhile accomplished when they planned the Soc Hop and Cheap Thrills. March 24 found 'boppers' swarming into the gym and grooving to the hot rhythms of Hoover's own Jazz Band. A total of $100 was raked in and split between Jazz Band and Student Council.

Student talent provided entertainment for everyone attending Cheap Thrills April 7. Co-chairmen Jenni Holmes and Mark Constance gathered together a variety of singing and guitar playing groups and soloists, skits, and a couple of 'specialty acts' put on by Nancy DeCarlo and Leah Hodam, which made up an evening of 'thrilling' entertainment.

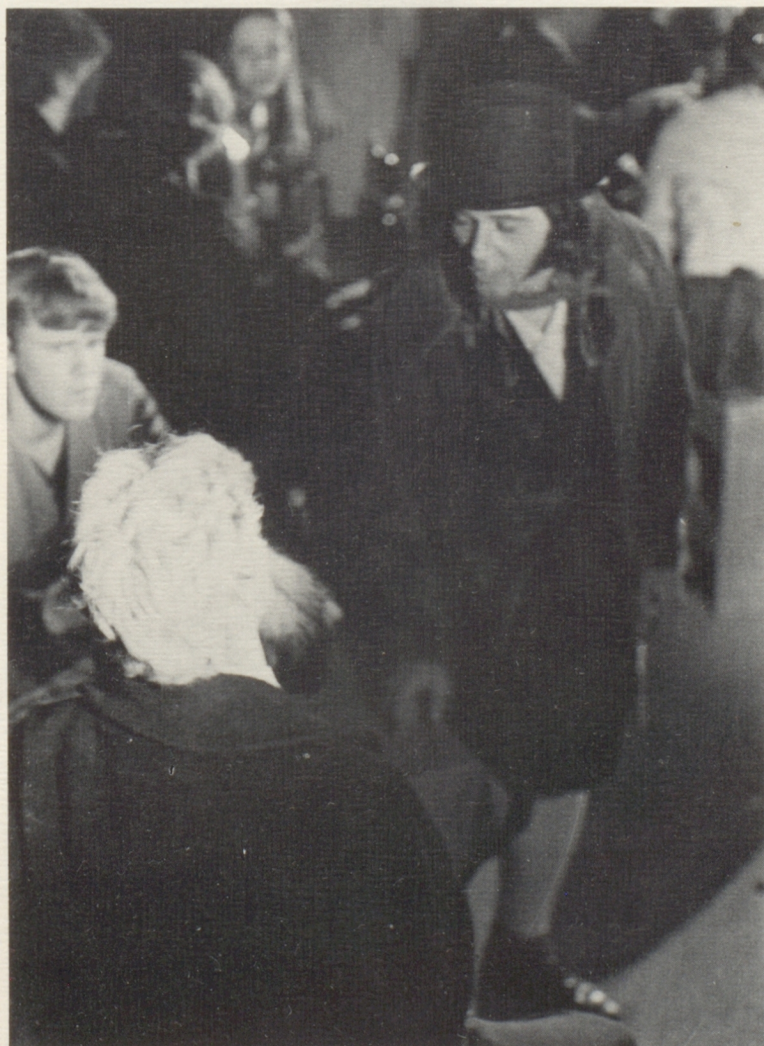

Record breaking audience acclaims musical 'Oliver!'

Typical of the general attitude expressed by all who saw the Drama Department's spring musical, 'Oliver!', one downtown office school official summed it up by exclaiming, "The best high school play I've ever seen!" An unmeasurable amount of hard work was put in by a cast and crew of more than 200 members for the three night run, April 20, 21, and 22. A record breaking crowd attended opening night, and, to accommodate the crowd the following two nights, folding chairs had to be set up in the back of the auditorium.

Production class proved worthwhile when they helped plan and construct 13 different sets. Mr. Steve Pudenz produced and directed the show with the help of student director Debbie Wellman. Music director and conductor was Mr. James Brauning. Mr. Willard Marquardt was vocal director and Miss Wendy Baron was choreographer.

'Alphabet Book' theme of synchronized swim show

Sandy Durham and Greg Peterson reigned as the Marlin Queen and King at the annual synchronized swim show, "The Alphabet Book," April 27, 28, and 29. Royalty attendants included seniors Reggie Reynolds and John Burns, Diane Janson and Chuck Smith, juniors Shelia Duff and Bill Wellborne, and sophomores Nancy Alsager and Eric Thompson. Diane also designed and supervised the construction of all scenery and backdrops, which included the 26 letters of the alphabet.

Dedicated to graduate Doug Hyde, the show carried the theme of the alphabet throughout each of the synchronized numbers. Judy Kochheiser performed a solo to "Around the World in 80 Days," and the boys' swim team performed to "The Good, Bad, and Ugly."

"Movie Madness", theme of the second annual Film Follies, May 8 and 9, found a variety of student cinematography efforts shown along with the Marx Brothers' "Horse Feathers." Profits made from the follies will be used to purchase more audio-visual equipment.

First night activities included the presentation of the Film Follies' own awards for achievement in film production. Raeanne Hytone's "Glory Road" was judged best student film. Other winners were: Best Technical Effects-Doug Hanes and Gary Jorgensen, John Hiatt; Most Original Idea-Rob Reinders and Todd Buckton; Best Story-Steve Dickinson and Jeff Wood. "A Night with Percy," awarded for best story, was not shown at the follies.

'For everything there is a season' theme of banquet

"For everything there is a season" was the theme of Senior Banquet, planned by Cathy Boysen, president of Senior Board.

Making their last performance together, Robbin Williams and Mark Constance sang special selections as seniors drifted into the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel Fort Des Moines. Dr. Wetter opened the program after dinner with a short speech and was followed by three student speakers. Ray Jones spoke about his past memories, Karen Mitchell spoke about the "live for the moment" presence, and Brooke Billick spoke about the future.

Robbin and Mark dedicated the song "Friends" to the class of '72, closing the banquet.

Savory Hotel hosts prom; music by 'Echoes LTD'

On the night of May 27, 150 couples entered the ballroom of the Hotel Savory where the Echoes LTD entertained for the Senior Prom. Two walls were covered with 150 miniature suns with the names of each couple on them, carrying out the theme of "Here Comes the Sun." An arch covered with yellow and orange paper flowers connected the ballroom to the reception room where hors d'oeuvres and punch were served. Also in the same room were a fountain and bridge on which many couples had their picture taken.

After prom almost everyone had dinner reservations at Des Moines' finest restaurants and attended parties lasting until dawn. Memory books were tokens of the night.

Veterans Memorial Auditorium was the scene of graduation ceremonies held May 31 at 8 p.m. Hoover's Symphonic Concert Band performed "Festivo" and "Fanfare, Chorale and Fugue" at the beginning of the ceremony. Reverend Clarence Balmer, pastor of Westchester Evangelical Free Church, delivered the invocation, followed by guest speaker Most Reverend Maurice J. Dingman, Bishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Des Moines. Presentation of the class for graduation was made by Dr. Richard P. Klahn, Director of Secondary Education for the Des Moines Public Schools. 407 seniors graduated as Mr. Wendell Miskimins announced each person's name and Dr. John E. McCaw presented diplomas with the aid of Miss Vera Kendall.

The view toward sports was beginning to be realistic. Much emphasis was placed on sports still, but students not participating weren't as caught up in athletics. In a way, more participants were drawn away from sports in that they weren't as totally dedicated to their sport as others. Hoover still did well in sports and created enough interest from girls to start a girls' track team. Some childish ideas of winning ribbons and being recognized were still found. But a large number of athletes looked on sports as something to help them—developing their bodies, working with other people, and taking wins and losses in stride.

Huskies win 4 consecutive games; rank fifth in Metro

After early season losses to four of the state's top-rated teams, the Huskies finished strong by winning four of their last five games.

Highlighted by a thrilling Homecoming victory over a tough Valley team, the 1971 Huskies rolled to a 4-3 conference record and a fifth place finish in the Metro Conference. Dave McCarville and Dave Sisam were named to the first Metro team; Rahn Bjornson, Bill Peppmeier, and Don Johansen headlined the second team. Bjorson and McCarville also made All-State honorable mention.

An over-all record of four wins and five losses failed to reflect the toughness of Hoover's defense. On offense, Rahn Bjorson led the Huskies by gaining 891 yards. Steve Dickinson and Dave Sisam captained the team through its fifth campaign. McCarville and Johansen were also named most valuable players.

Jones, Spikes head Pups offense for a losing cause

Kirk Sloan and Wayne DePenning anchored the defense, while Greg

Jones and Monty Spikes rushed for the most offensive yardage.

Sloan and Ben Kaufman captained the Pup team which named Jones and John Cleavenger most valuable players. The most improved player was John Bergman.

Seniors Gary Noyes and Kirk Devine, most valuable players, placed in the Metro Conference along with Joe Viola, Clint Luscombe, Mark Schillerstrom, and Dennis Halstead. Noyes and Schillerstrom captained the team which set 27 school records.

The junior varsity's record was 4-6-1; the sophomores' 4-0-1. The most improved players were Luscombe, Bob Ellis, and Mark Johnson.

Cindermen first in District; team sets five records

Track records continued to fall as the trackmen dominated the Metro and District conferences. The team, defeated by Lincoln for the Metro title by $2\frac{1}{2}$ points, captured the District title. Marking a successful year were broken records set by Rahn Bjornson and the 880 relay team. Mike Fieseler set three records in the long jump and the high and low hurdles. Fieseler was named outstanding senior, Bjornson outstanding junior, and Steve Stone outstanding sophomore. Captains were Fieseler, Steve Kleen, Don Johansen, Joel Rodriguez, and Dave Sisam.

The premier of girls track found Sandy Kleen and Kim Olsen going to state. Hoover's first team was captained by Cheri Legore and Sandy Griffith.

Burns Sectional Medalist boys' golf grows stronger

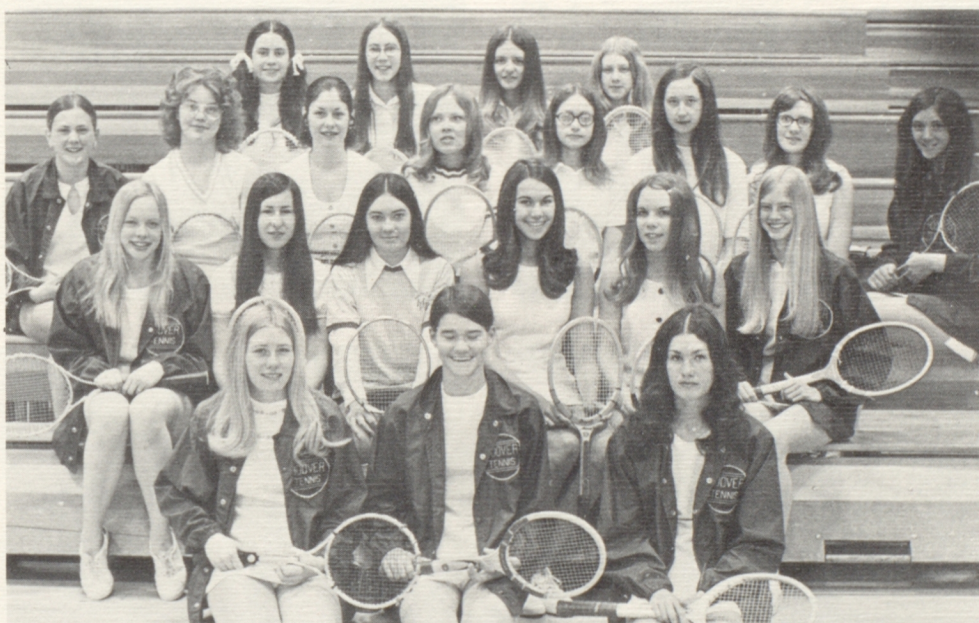

For the third consecutive year, the girls' golf team placed second in the Metro Conference with a 5-2 record and a 6-3 overall record. Robin Burns, captain, was named most valuable golfer. The girls placed five in the District meet. Burns was victor with a score of 94 for 18 holes. Karen Tarr followed at 105, Lynn Oberbillig at 109, Judy Kochheiser at 127, and Jeannine Hays at 127.

The 1972 season was not as successful for the boys who placed sixth in the conference with a 2-5 record and a 4-7 overall record. Larry Hildebrand, a three year letter winner who set many unbroken records, captained the team. The team continued to improve as the season progressed with the performance of Gary Fust.

Taylor, Shelton to State; girls' tennis places fourth

Behind the superb performances of Dick Taylor and Tom Shelton, contenders for the State title in tennis doubles, the boys' tennis team compiled a 7-2 over-all record. It was this strength that allowed Hoover to finish third in the Metro Conference with a 5-2 record. Dick Taylor, most improved player, was named boys' team captain by Coach Pam Herrick.

The girls' tennis team, with a 7-5 over-all record, placed fourth in the Metro Conference with a 4-3 record. Girls who played at district level were Lelie Myron, Karen Doty, singles; and Sue Wheeler, Jean Beatty, Sandy Kleen, and Luann Mulder, doubles. Leslie Myron was named girls' team captain and Luann Mulder as most improved player.

DeAngelo named to first team; high hopes for '72

With an upsetting victory over the city's number 1 ranked team, the 1971 Hoover Batmen earned a sixth place finish in the Metro Conference. A record of 5 wins and 9 losses were posted by the junior-studded team. Center-fielder Tom DeAngelo was named to the all-city first team with a batting average of .444. Pitcher Steve Kleen led in the number of strike-outs with 55 as the team carried a 9 win-13 loss over-all record.

The 1972 squad will be one of rebuilding although seven lettermen returned for summer duty. The Huskies lost their leading hitter and success depended upon whether the entire team could score for their pitchers in order to be a contender for the Metro title.

The 1300 Hoover students merged in their feelings of several school incidents. When the concession stand closed during lunch in the fall, all the classes got together and tried to flood the lunch lines, hoping to create such confusion that the results could be sent to Vern Carpenter, the food service chief for the State Department of Public Instruction, to show him it was impossible to feed everyone at Hoover with hot lunches, and that the concession stand should be reopened. It didn't work but there were many students who volunteered their time to work in the stand so it could stay open during the day. The money from keeping the stand open during the day about equalled that from lunch-time so that Hoover could receive the 5000 extra dollars that went for school supplies.

Another situation that occurred was the closing of the library balcony, which every student could have used if it had stayed open. The librarians decided the balcony wasn't being used properly. Many students questioned the closing frequently, but they weren't told the reason for the closing. A desk in the balcony was set on fire. Because of a snag in communication, nothing could be done for a better understanding between students and librarians.

Smoking at school raised even further disagreements. Half of the school's bathrooms were closed because of damage from vandalism and smoking. The students had no place to smoke at school so they used the bathrooms. The objections raised by the students were many, the best being that teachers, faculty, and janitors were free to smoke in a building prohibiting smoking, yet students were suspended if they were caught anywhere on the school grounds smoking. The problem was never solved.

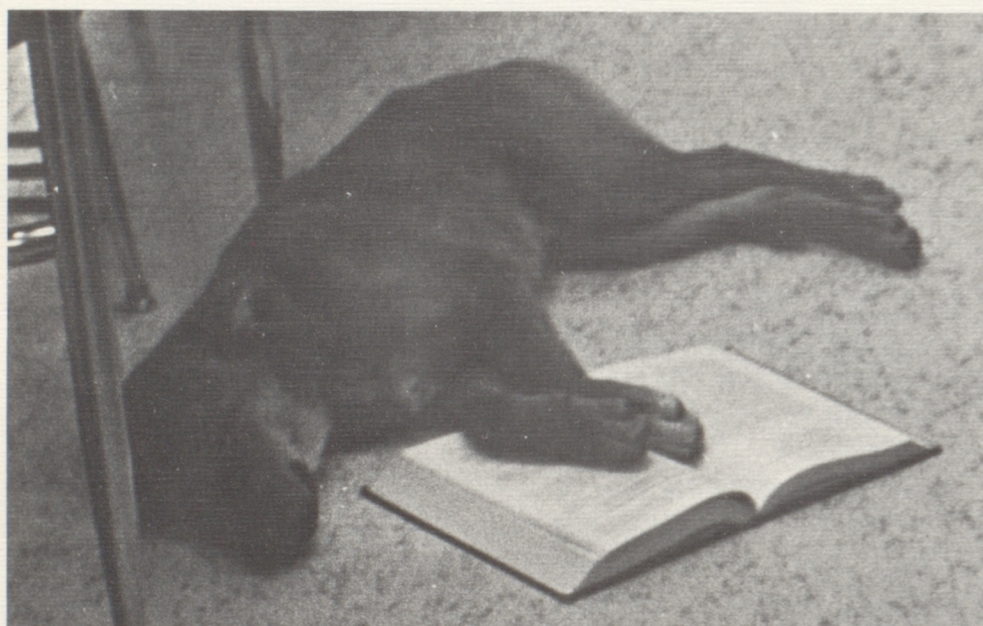

The students, though concerned about the same problems, still stuck with their own classes in school, school activities, and outside activities. Sophomores began to see what was ahead, the juniors were looking toward being the "oldest", and the seniors couldn't wait to graduate. The classes remained as they always did—separate, yet coping with many of the same problems.

My, how time flies when you're having a good time

For the graduating class of 1972, the final year at Hoover was filled with both enthusiasm and apathy, but most of all, anticipation for the year's end. A small group of dedicated individuals provided the leadership for activities such as Homecoming, Senior Board, Student Council, the Robert Keck Seminars, and Pancake Day. What were once vital activities of importance, such as attending all the games and dances, became secondary to earning money for the near future as approximately eighty-five per cent of the class headed to some kind of higher education.

May 31, 1972 will be remembered not as an end, but as a new beginning.

In Memoriam

Jayne Rene Hentges

March 27, 1954 - April 5, 1972

Jayne Rene Hentges, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reynold J. Hentges, died at Broadlawns Polk County Hospital from head and chest injuries received when she was thrown against a plow in a horseback riding accident. A companion, Lynn Scott, escaped injury in the mishap which occurred on the afternoon of April 5.

In honor of Jayne, the "Jayne Hentges Humanitarian Award", to be given annually, was presented to Connie Scherer during commencement ceremonies May 31.

The criterion for a student receiving the honor is that he or she affects the lives of others simply by knowing them. "These are the humanitarian qualities Jayne displayed in her own life," said humanities teacher Mr. Ron Danielson.

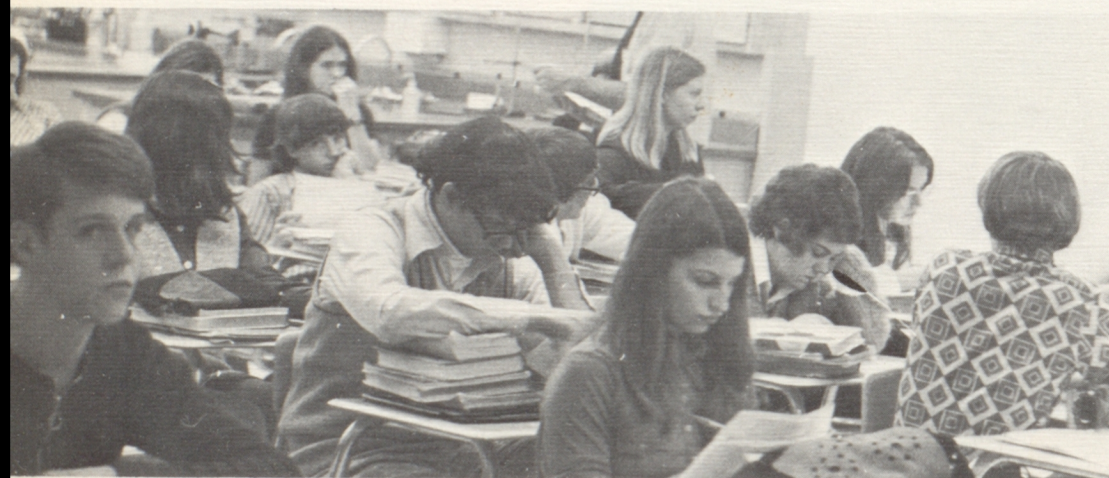

An individual plaque will be given to each recipient of the award with a quotation inscribed attributed to Alfred Lord Tennyson reading: "I am a part of all that I have met." A large permanent plaque will also be displayed in Hoover's lobby.

Lower right. Debbie Vance and other scenery crew members prepare the set for "Tartuffe."

Below. Bill Wellborne has second thoughts about studying, while Jean Parker turns her nose up at her chemistry lab write-up.

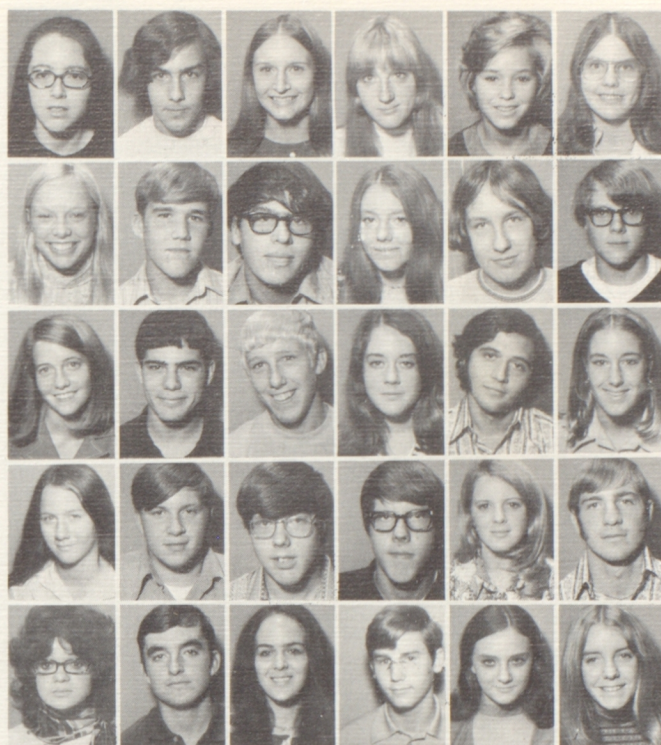

Class of '73 develops new awareness, interest in life

During their second year at Hoover, the class of '73 grew, preparing themselves for leadership. Juniors developed distinct personalities as they dropped the "follow the group" attitude of their sophomore year. Two basic types of people prevailed in the 421 juniors. The most common type held an interest and awareness in life, while another and much smaller group was apathetic toward school activities and life in general.

Here all generalizations ended. Variety and uniqueness will be a theme of the class of '73 as they take over leadership of Hoover.

Sophomores seek activities to become involved, aware

As the 450 underclassmen forged through their first year at Hoover, they discovered that their talents could be developed to an extent never before attained. The Reading Lab became a new tool which extended the talents of some sophomores, while forensics extended the talents of others, sports the talents of others, music the talents of others, and drama the talents of others.

But, as the year progressed, individualism was not apparent as the class of '74 seemed to be one mass, conglomerate group of students in a new school striving to seek identity.

Far right. Larry Garles wears the mask of learned wisdom as math racks his mind.

The staff wants to thank all the advertisers and friends of Hoover for their contributions. We know that many don't feel their money going as "advertising" but rather for contributions. With a circulation of 1150 subscribers, we feel the ads are worthwhile and serve as a useful means of advertising, especially when a product is geared toward the student or his family.

Yes—it's going to take more energy, not less, to help keep old "spaceship earth" a fit place to live on. Yet, this energy must be produced in a way that protects our precious natural environment.

We're working hard to be a smaller part of the problem...and a bigger part of the solution.

Cheerleaders Patti Noble and Sandy Griffith discuss their plans for after the game.

As part of Youngers firm belief in the young people of today, a program is offered each year for the Des Moines area schools . . . TEEN BOARD for junior and senior girls and ADVISORY BOARD for junior and senior boys. These young people, selected to represent their schools, are chosen for leadership qualities, high scholastic standings, personal recommendations from school administrators and evaluation from members of the retiring boards, plus their interest and ability in retail and fashion. They participate in special fashion shows during the year, give talks to their schools and to other groups on good grooming, publish a monthly newsletter and work in various junior departments each Saturday. Youngers salutes the representatives from Hoover High School for a job very well done.

High school life is viewed through the eyes of an adult, yet still an adolescent. Present pleasures intrigue the adolescent while the future impends on the adult. High school is made up of experiences to be looked back on as unforgettable occurrences one would never change.

Last summer I had papers full of ideas for a totally new yearbook. There was a large staff—22 members. I thought, “Wow! All I have to do is give the deadlines and check over the final copy.”

When school started and our slowly-diminishing staff assembled, reality came as a cold wave, hitting at the bottom of my feet and creeping up to my mind. My ideas didn’t always go along with the majority. Every one of the 22, with the exception of Mike Devine, Diane Bondy, and Melodee Evans, was inexperienced in journalism.

But, inexperience didn’t result in unwillingness to work. We had some hassles to get our sections by deadlines. The biggest problem I felt was the students’ lack of trust in the staff’s ability to create a yearbook that, in our estimation, reflected an accurate history of the year, and, at the same time, put things in it to make the book new and exciting.

All in all, the 1972 Husky is an excellent book, and I can’t thank my staff enough for all their help and cooperation. I would especially like to thank Lora Sturtz and Mike Devine for their undertaking jobs in the middle of the year and doing a fantastic job.

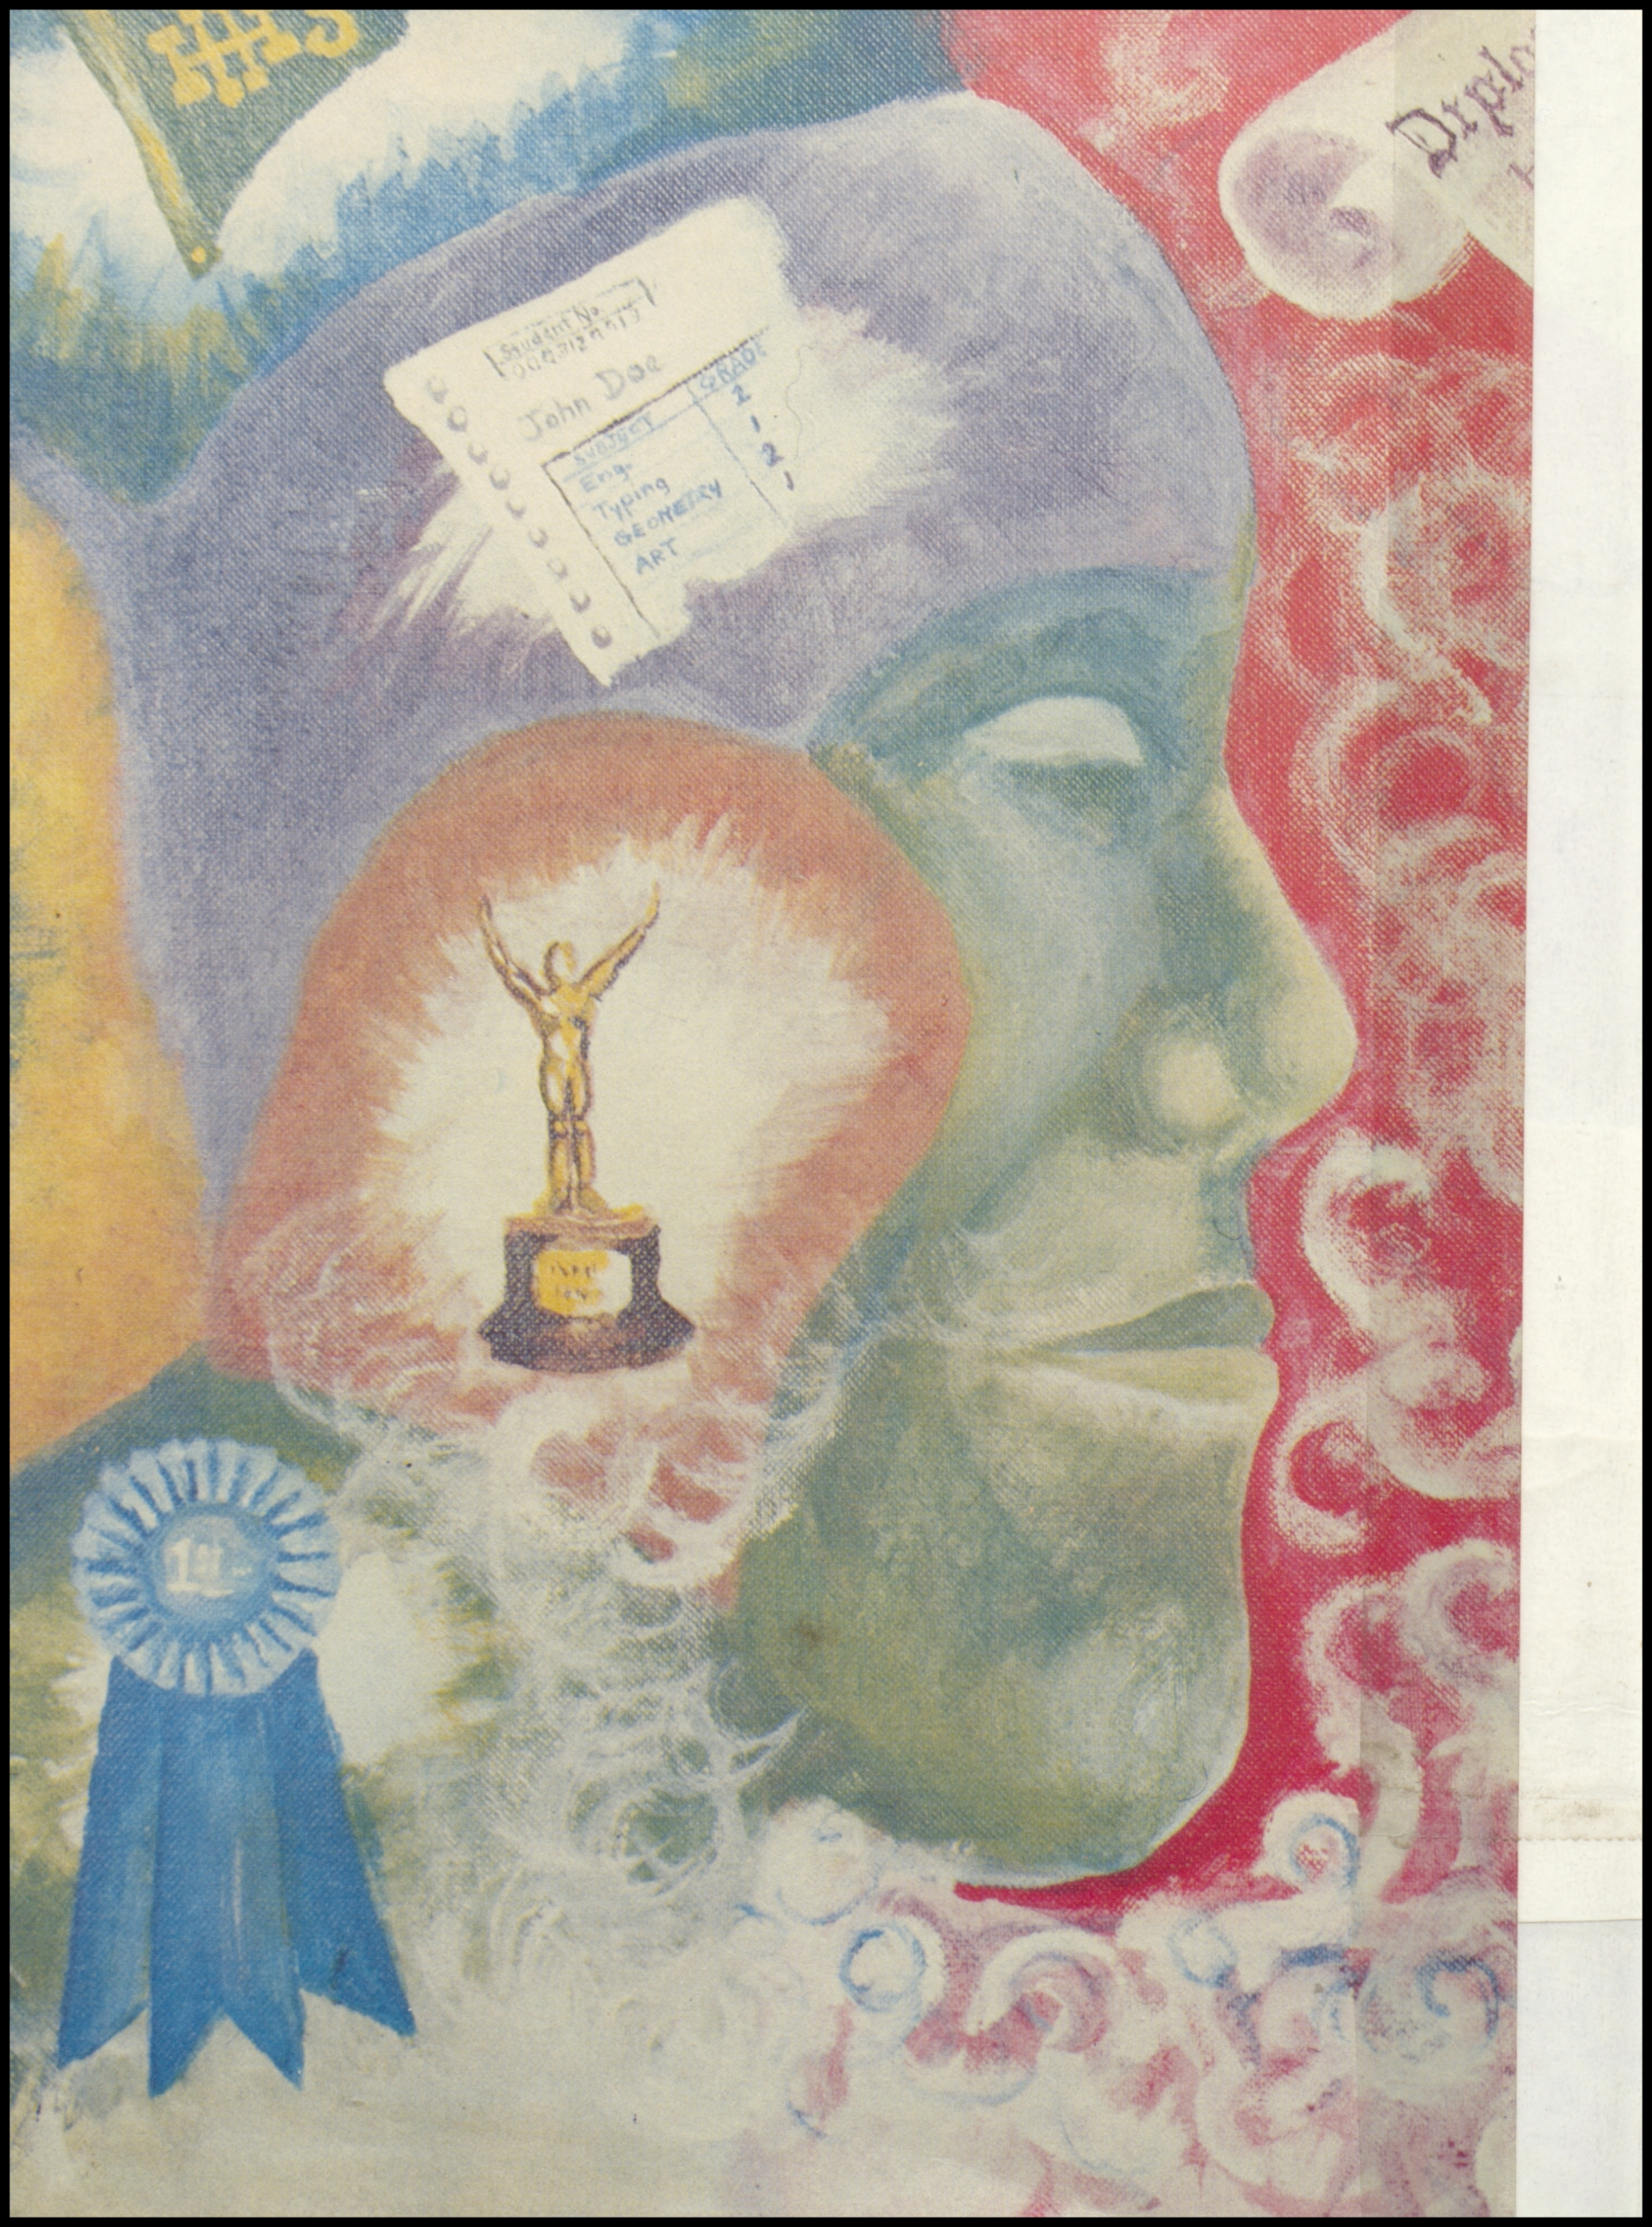

And one other person I want to thank for everything—all the time she gave, all the advice she gave, and all the complaining she put up with—is the yearbook adviser, Mrs. Ruth McHone. Along with a publication every two weeks, she had to worry about the yearbook. Without her I couldn’t have done my job, and there certainly wouldn’t have been a yearbook.
